A. K. Stevenson Has Narrow Escape in Runaway.

Last Saturday afternoon, as A. K. Stevenson, of one mile north of Farmington, was enroute to Farmington the animal he was driving became frightened at a passing automobile near the Stevenson home and ran away, throwing Mr. Stevenson violently from the buggy into a barbed wire fence. He sustained several bad cuts and bruises about the face, left side and lower limb. The man who was driving the automobile was a doctor from St. Louis. He picked up the injured man and took him to his home and dressed his injuries, which we are glad to hear are not serious though are quite painful and will cause him to be laid up for a few days. The mare was not hurt, but the buggy was pretty well demolished before the frightened animal was stopped.—Farmington News.

Mr. Stevenson was raised at New Wells and moved from there four years ago. His friends will be glad to know he is not seriously injured.

WHOSE YIELD IS LARGEST?

Every one of our farm readers in Cape Girardeau county will no doubt be interested in the fact that the Missouri Ruralist of Kansas City is offering a beautiful silver cup to the Missourian who has this year grown the most wheat per acre on a measured area. They are devoting a great deal of attention to this matter, as this enterprising publication insists that the entire world should know about Missouri's best wheat grower, and that when he is found he will be the equal if not superior to the best in any state. We earnestly urge that every reader of our paper who has made a good yield of wheat this year or who has a neighbor with an exceptionally good yield, take up this matter with the Ruralist and win the cup. There is no expense attached to entering this contest and the man who wins it will confer a distinction upon his locality which will be of benefit to all. Similar trophies will later be offered for the best yields of corn and alfalfa.

Cape Girardeau County grows as good wheat and has as good farmers as any county in Missouri. We need that cup; let's go after it. Write to the Missouri Ruralist at Kansas City, Missouri.

Beef Was Never So High

GRADE, or so Fine, that it was too good for our stock. The choicest that ever fed upon pasture land, or drank from a clear running brook, is what we look for and get. The cow that was in such good condition that it jumped over the moon, would have been the meat for us if we could have lassoed it. When you want prime, juicy meats call upon us and you will get the finest in the land.

FRISCO TRAIN NO. 886 PLUNGES THROUGH TRESTLE.

Dead and Injured Brought to Cape Girardeau.

One killed and thirty-one injured was the result when two coaches being pulled by train No. 886 plunged through a fifteen foot trestle, caused from a broken angle-bar coupling dropping down on the front wheels of the first coach of the LaMont Bros. show car. The accident occurred about three o'clock Tuesday afternoon on trestle No. 192, near Chaonia, about fifty-five miles south of here on the Hunter branch of the Frisco. The train crew assisted by the uninjured rescued the dead and injured from the pile of debris, in the mean time Conductor Kelly taking his engine and made a fast run to Puxico, where he secured doctors and coaches to take care of his charge enroute to the Cape where twenty of the injured and the dead were taken to the St. Francis hospital, the remaining eleven being taken to St. Louis. The relief train arrived here about 1:15 Wednesday morning, being met by six ambulances and a large crowd of good hearted Cape people willing to render any service possible.

The Hessian Fly.

BY SETH BARCOCK, Dep't of Agriculture, Cape Girardeau State Normal School.

No wheat raising country is free from the fly and because Southeast Missouri suffered but little from the pest during the past season does not assure us that we will not have trouble in the future. Since nature, by unfavorable weather conditions, is lessening the effect of the fly, we should double our efforts to control the pest. Man wages a losing warfare against all insect pests when conditions are favorable for their growth and development. The most effective time to strike is when their own parasites have them down; then the aid we give is of most value.

The one effective way of fighting Hessian Fly is by late sowing. All the adult flies perish with the first frost, the pupa or flaxseed stage being the only way the insect can pass the winter. It naturally follows that if all volunteer wheat is killed and no wheat is up before a frost has gotten rid of the adult female flies, our wheat will be free from fly. Drilling should be delayed until the first or second week in October, or even later if the weather remains warm.

The fly travels readily from one field to another and one early sown field in a neighborhood is enough to infect all the surrounding fields. Wheat raising is a community affair. We are dependent on our neighbor's help in harvesting and threshing. If we are the only one sowing early we should heed our neighbor's request and sow later.

This campaign for late sowing must not be taken to mean also late preparation of seed bed. The seed bed should be prepared early so that the soil will have united with the subsoil and if trash or manure has been turned, it will be well settled and will not interfere with the rise or capillary water. The longer the time between preparation of ground and seeding, the larger the amount of plant food that will be available and the more vigorous and healthy will be our young wheat plant.

NEARLY THREE-FOURTHS OF MILLION MINERS.

The number of miners engaged in bituminous and lignite mining in 1911 was 549,750 and those in anthracite mining, 172,585, a total of 722,335. The average production per man was 738 tons for the year in the bituminous and lignite mines and 524 tons in the anthracite mines. In 1910 the corresponding averages were 751 and 498 tons.
